Requests for a non-preferred brand buprenorphine/naloxone agent may be approved if the following criteria are met:

I. All of the following:

- a. The individual has failed an adequate trial of the preferred generic buprenorphine/naloxone agent within the previous 120 days (Note: Adequate trial is defined as at least 28 days of treatment.); AND
- b. One of the following:
 - 1) The patient experienced therapeutic failure with the preferred generic buprenorphine/naloxone agent (Note: brand buprenorphine agents will not be approved for patients who report lesser efficacy as compared to the preferred generic buprenorphine agent unless it would be clinically inappropriate to address efficacy with dose adjustment.); OR
 - 2) Generics caused adverse outcome; AND
- c. The prescriber has provided confirmation of a MedWatch form submission to the FDA documenting the therapeutic failure or adverse outcome experienced by the patient. (Note: The MedWatch form is available at <https://www.fda.gov/downloads/AboutFDA/ReportsManualsForms/Forms/UCM163919.pdf>)

OR

II. Both of the following:

- a. The individual has a hypersensitivity reaction to an inactive ingredient in the preferred generic buprenorphine agent(s); AND
- b. The hypersensitivity reaction(s) is clearly documented in the patient's medical record.

OR

III. Both of the following:

- a. The individual has a confirmed pregnancy; AND
- b. Request is for buprenorphine-naloxone film

Additional Notes:

- GI upset or irritation is not generally considered an allergy or failed treatment. Patients should be referred to their physician or pharmacist for advice on dose adjustment, and/or other options to reduce GI upset/irritation.
- Common documented side effects attributed to the drug (i.e. headache, nausea, blurred vision, fatigue, muscle aches) are not considered an allergy and would be expected to occur at the same level in both the generic and brand agent.
- Drug hypersensitivity symptoms may include skin rash, hives, itching, fever, swelling, shortness of breath, wheezing, runny nose, itchy and/or watery eyes, and in severe cases, anaphylaxis.

RATIONALE
